

TERMS & CONDITIONS

We work on certain terms !

TechDataPark is a leading marketing consulting and services agency, serving clients around the globe. We pride in helping our clients in planning and executing their marketing campaigns.

TechDataPark has been accepted as one such service provider, whose services and practices are in line with all the marketing laws. Even our competition accepts that we follow all the best practices of email marketing and abide by the Data Protection Act for carrying out direct marketing services.

TechDataPark follows all the below-mentioned marketing practices and expects clients to do the same.

- The marketing pitches via email, phone, fax, or post are sent to only those who already have given us permission for the same
- The first and the subsequent marketing pitches sent to the prospects and clients contain a clearly visible unsubscribe link
- The promotional pitches are sent only through the medium, which is selected by our prospects
- The customer database compiled by us contains only those contacts who have given us consent and permission to do so
- Our complete postal address, email address and toll-free number are given in each email so that they can contact us any time for any concerns and issues
- Complete information regarding company name, business nature and why we are asking for the personal details are given to our prospects in the first marketing campaign
- Each email has a link to the privacy policy webpage, so that our prospects can understand us better